

Landcare for Country

The Landcare for Country Pilot enables self-determination by supporting Traditional Owner and First Nations aspirations and priorities for Country and people. The pilot test different ways to support First Nations capacity and capability to engage with Landcare to care for Country.

2022-23 Outcomes

Three pilot partnerships established:

- Tati Tati Kaiejin Ltd
- Barengi Gadjin Land Council Aboriginal Corporation
- Duduroa Dhargal Aboriginal Corporation

14 Cultural Practice Workshops delivered to Landcare Networks. Projects include:

- Cultural mapping
- Traditional practice
- Traditional burning
- Mapping waterways

Total of $2.2M funding over four years

40,000 Riparian and water plants planted in partnership with the Wetland Revival Trust, to revegetate and create a natural filtration system at Robinvale.

Two full-time and five part-time positions created within participating Aboriginal organisations

Projects planned for 2023-24

Establish a new greenhouse nursery for self-sufficient sourcing of native vegetation for revegetation projects

Undertake Cultural mapping activities with Landcare groups

Continue to increase employment and career development opportunities within each organisation

Continue to deliver Cultural practice workshops to Landcare groups

Partnering with Landcare groups to undertake revegetation projects

